TRAINING

Every company has a moral and legal responsibility to ensure the health and safety of its employees. There is a clear correlation between poor health and safety standards which not only cause accidents but also significant costs for your business.

MST Health and Safety Services is dedicated to the enhancement of health and safety within the construction and associated industries and we believe that proactive management of health and safety issues will help avoid accidents, minimise injuries, remove fatalities and reduce costs.

MST Health and Safety Services run regular health and safety training courses at our training venues throughout the year or we can arrange in-house courses at your premises. All our courses can be 'tailor made' for your needs.

ACCIDENT INVESTIGATION

MST Health and Safety Services are specialists in industrial accident investigation. Site visits are undertaken by MST Health and Safety Services investigators to establish the true nature of the accident.

Working closely with employers they will endeavour to identify the root cause leading to the industrial accidents and also provide training for those responsible.

A thorough investigation into all workplace accidents will demonstrate to the authorities that the necessary remedial action has or is being taken.

CONSULTANCY

It is a requirement under UK law that all organisations have access to "competent" health and safety advice.

MST Health and Safety Services offer an extensive number of health and safety consultancy services for many types and size of organisations. Our services include health and safety policies, risk assessments, audits, inspections and accident investigation.

If you wish you can combine these services into an annual support contract which will provide a cost effective way for your business to outsource it's health and safety needs.

Please contact us today for an informal discussion on how we can help you to comply with health and safety law.
